Elizabeth Haran

Australien, 1933: Arabella Fitzherbert, eine junge Engländerin, unternimmt mit ihren Eltern eine Reise durch Australien. Die Familie ist des trockenen Klimas wegen zum Roten Kontinent gereist, damit ihre einzige Tochter sich dort von ihrer langen Krankheit erholen kann. Doch durch eine Verkettung unglücklicher Umstände bleibt Arabella allein und verletzt in der Wüste zurück. Sie wäre sicherlich dem Tod geweiht, hätte nicht eine Gruppe umherziehender Aborigines sie gefunden und zur nächsten Siedlung gebracht: Marree – eine winzige Stadt im Outback. Arabella ist auf sich allein gestellt, während ihre Eltern sie tot wähnen ...

We Germans do love Australian novels and i am no longer an exception as i've got learn and loved a lot of Elizabeth Haran's books. because of a Im Tal der flammenden Sonne web library i eventually received my fingers on considered one of them in English. "Under a flaming sky" is now my moment favorite (after "Im Land des Eukalyptusbaums", idek the orginal title) of her novels. At the start of the tale Arabella is an annoying, spoilt brat, but if she is stranded in a small outback city with out her parents, she has to begin becoming up. It used to be a true excitement to examine Arabella's personality developement and the effect the Australian outback has on her. the tale is pleasing and wealthy in type (romance, action, slightly of drama, ...).
